

5

A multi-user package retrieval and storage system, includes one or more delivery node systems having a plurality of storage units and a locker controller that controls access to the storage units and electrically communicates with a back office system via a communication network.